CITY INTELLIGENCE.

THE SUPREME COURT CHAMBER JUDGESHIP .- It is reported that a conference between Mayor Hoffman and some of the judges of the Supreme court was held yesterday at the office of the former, with especial reference to the appointment by Governor Fenton—under the provisions of the new law—of one of the Justices of this court to conduct all business of an exporte character. The sentiment of the bench, bar and public favor the selection of Judge Barnard.

Sale of the Cld Bowert Theatre.—A considerable number of the orical people and professionals assembled it the real estate salesrooms in Trinity Building, yes-orday, and, with the usual concourse of men with business air and brusque manner, made a more motley assemblage than was, perhaps, ever before gathared at the salesroom. The occasion was the sale at auction, by A. J. Bleecker & Son, of the old theatrical landmark known as Fox's Old Bowery theatre, which was offered nder decree of the Supreme Court. The terms of sale id not vary substantially from the usual phrasing—viz, under decree of the Supreme Court. The terms of sale did not vary substantially from the usual phrasing—vis, ten per cent of the money down, and the remainder to be paid on the 1st day of May, when a deed in fee simple would be given, or arranged with terms of payment and securities according to the judgment of the referee. The premises were sold, giving a clear title without regard to existing mortgages, of which there are two—one in which the property is helden in the sum of $740,000 to William B. Astor, and a second to J. S. Glies for the sum of $7,000. It was announced that the mortgage to Astor might be permitted to remain as a lieu upon the property if the bidder so wished; and with these limitations and terms the bidding was begun. Bids were not at first very spiritedly given, and it was obvious that there was very little enthusiasm, the professionans looking on rather curiously than otherwise, and the capitalists being obviously disinclined to off-rheavily. Into first bid given was for $80,000, and thence, in twenty seven offers, that sum was gradually swollen, thousand by thousand, to the aggregate of $106,000. Leopoidt Bernheimer then stepped forward and sutscribed his name as buyer and the curowd separated. The present lease, which is for $14 300 per year, expires on the 17th of May, when Bernheimer will come in possession of the premises. The owner bought the property some years since for $107,000, one thousand more than the highest bid yesteriay. MAYOR'S OFFICE .- Mr. A. S. Cady, recently appointed

Clerk of Arrears, by Comptroller Connolly, has qualified before Mayor Hoffman, by taking the oath of office. Mr. A. C. Bauich, who has been appointed, by virtue an ordinance of the Common Council, Janties of the City Library, has also qualified in the state manner as Mr. Caty.

EXPRESS WAGONS EXEMPT FROM LABORNAL REVENUE Tax - The Commissioner of the mai Revenue has decided that bargage, himber appears wagons made for carrying freight excellent, and not to be used for pleasure carriages or samp from tax.

The Fair use—A meeting of this society was held at the come of the club yesterday, President Ely in the result. The attendance was very large and included many ladies. A letter was received from Samuel Freean, of Cortland county, New York, who reports that careful investigation has convinced him that cane ords are destructive to honey bees; that a post mortem birds are destructive to honey bees; that a post mortem examination of one of those birds exhibited many working bees] in the "gizzard," but he was unable to find any drones. Dr. Vauder Weyde, by invitation, read an interesting paper upon the "Use of Raw and Cooked Food," which was much applauded. A large number of new and us fu inventions were exhibited and their merits fully canvassed. An invitation, extended by Mr. Nichols, of Hammontou, N. J., to the members of the club to visit the strawberry fair at that place, was necepted. A letter from Joseph Cartis, of Knoxville, Tehm., enclosing a photograph of a marble image found in a cave near Strawberry Pains, was read, from which it would seem that the Tennesseeans have discovered evidences of an extinct and dolatrous race. Mr. Withur Ward, of Oregon City, Oregon, communicated to the club that the fruit of that State is very fine, and that the yield has been so great that farmers are compelled to feed apples to their stock, yet they import dried apples from Boston. Mr. Waugh asks for information as to the system adopted here in the east for drying and preserving apples.

Young Men's Roman Carbothac Association.—The

Young Men's Roman Carnottae Association.—The ath annual ball of the Young Men's Association comes off this evening at the Academy of Music. These balis are given for the benefit of the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, and on their receipts between one thousand and one thousand three hundred orphans are, in a great measure, dependent. For this reason it is hoped that the disciples of Terpsichore will turn out in large numbers and join in the merry dance to the music of Grafulla's and Dodworth's bands, and at the same time aid in supporting a most worthy charitable institution.

AN ALLEG D ARSCENDER -Yesterday atterpoon Inspector Dilks received intelligence from certain quarters in this city that a young German named Aaron Meyer, who has been for some time past employed as clerk by Mr. Rapbael Brown, who does business at No. 29 Ewen street, Williamsburg, had absconded-as it is allegedstreet, Williamsborg, had absconded—as it is alleged—with $1,500 in money, a note for $300, and five boxes of ladies' gatiers valued at $1,500, all of which was alleged to have been stolen from his employer. He is also accused of hating abducted a little derman girl, named Deckia Miller, aged thirteen years, who has not be in $200 or heard of since leyer has disappeared from Williamsburg. It is said that he left this city on the 20th list, on board of the sceamer Arizona, boths for California; and linepector Pilks has telegraphed to Chief of Police Lees, of San Francisco, to arrest him so soon as the vessel arrives at that per.

MIGRATORY POST OFFICER -On Monday a novelty was introduced in connection with the eight A. M. and halfpast five P. M. trains on the Eric Railway, in carrying into effect of a project to tacilitate postal communication between the different stations. The novelty consisted of the introduction of postal distributing cars, fitted of the introduction of postal distributing cars, fitted according to suggestion and direction from the Post Onice Department, and provided with desks, pigeon holes and other appliances. The cars are in all respects after the model of ordinary passenger cars, with the exception that all the paraphernatia of a post-office in pets are arranged along the wails, while the seasts are made up of a couple of solar and a few cane seat stools like those used in counting rooms. These moving past offices take up and distribute letters at all the way stations, as well as at those where trains usually stop, though they are not intended to interfere with the regular system of through mails.

The Coleman House — a new hotel, under the above title has been opened at the corner of Broadway and

A pleasant dining room is reserved for fadies, and a very spectous restaurant in the basement will provide the inner man with all the dainties that the most fastidious taste may require and at a cost reasonable and in proportion to the order, as the establishment is to be conducted on the European pian.

MORE REVENUE SEIZURES.

Yesterday morning the revenue authorities made a seizure on the tobacco factory of Mr. Bromker, No. 38 Rivington street, on the alleged ground that there was a deficiency in the returns made by the proprietor. The factory of Messra Hunt & Hale, No. 450 West street, was also placed in possession of the revenue officers in consequence of the proprietors neglecting to take out a license until the 11th of March, whereas, it is alleged, they commenced the manufacturing of tobacco in the carry part of last Because.

EASTER FESTIVAL AT THE GRPHAN HOME AND ASYLUM. The Easter Festival of the Orphan's Home and Asy-

The Easter Festival of the Orphan's Home and Asylum of the Protestant Episcopal Church was held yesterday at the institution in Forty-ninth street, corner of Lexington avenue. The children, all neatly attired in print dresses and clean white pinafores, were ranged upon the main staircase, looking as bright and happy as the most ardent betievers in childhood's innocence could expect them to appear. The home was thrown open to visitors, of whom a considerable number were present, the ladies largely predominating among the spectatora. The festival was more for the benefit of the indies connected with the institution than its immates, and consisted of a gathering of the members and their friends for the purpose of friendly consultation and conversation. The children, in the course of the morning, sang several sacred and secular pieces in a very pretty manner, reflecting speat credit on the gentleman who has the charge of the munical department. The other features in the affair were a collation and a fancy fair, each of which seemed to have their special admirers. No business was transacted, nor were there any speeches made, but the festival resolved itself into a social reunion.

Science of the Distillery in Morrisania.

The seizure of the distillery in East Morrisania on Monday last was, it is stated, made in the name and by the authority of Mr. M. B. Field, Collector of the Sixthdistrict, and formerly Assistant Secretary of the Trea sury. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has sury. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has granted bim fine power to make seizures in other districts this mis own. Mr. Cornelius Stagg, the special agent from the Treasury Department, who was prominently connected with the seizure, has operated with similar success in Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and has earned for himself the reputation of being one of the moss efficient officers connected with the department. It was owing to the efficient use made by Collector Field of the special powers granted him and the energetic and intelligent application of the large experience or Mr. Stagg that the success of the enterprise was due.

Three Distilleries Selzed in Brooklyn. The following seizures were made in Brooklyn yes-terday, and reported at the office of the United States terday, and reported at the office of the United States District Attorney;—

Deputy Collector E. E. Dailey and Inspector Cocheu soized the distillery of H. W. Quitzow, in Bergen, near Nevins street. The seizure was made on the charge that the cistern room was open contrary to law, and that there was more molasses formenting than had been entered upon the books.

Patrick Shannon's distillery in Third street, near the bridge, Gowanus, was also seized by the same officers on the charge that the cistern room was open. A rectifying establishment was also tound on the premises.

Inspector Barrows reported the seizure of Daniel O'Brien's distillery in Adelphi street, near Flushing avenue, on the charge that false entries had been made upon the books of the establishment.

THE ROWING REGATTAS AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD. NEW YORK, April 23, 1867. In compliance with the request of Hamilton Morton Esq., the American Commissioner for the International Rowing Regatta, to take place on the river Scine, at Paris, on the 7th and 8th of July next, I take this method of conveying such information as I have derived from the official programme of the "Societé des Régates Parisiennes" and other sources.

The races are open to gentlemen amateurs only. The classification of boats are yawls, outriggers and shells.

The first race is for outriggers, single sculls. Prize, 500 france.

The second race is for yawls, double sculls. Prize, 1,000 france.
The third race is for yawls, four cars. Prize, 2,000 francs.
The fourth race is for yawls, six oars. Prize, 1,000 francs.
The fifth race is for outriggers, four cars. Prize, 1,000 france.

The sixth race is for shells, single sculls. Prize, 200

The sixth race is for shells, single sculis. Prize, 200 francs.

The seventh race is for yawis, doubls sculis. Prize, 300 francs.

The cighth race is for yawis, four oars. Prize, 600 francs.

The distance to be rowed is from one and a quarter to one and a haif miles, turning two stake boats.

The term "yawi," as used in the French programme, is here understood to mean the style of boat classed in our clubs as barges. Yet the yawi races are open to all boats that are not outrigged. It should also be understood that the outrigger races are not open to our American shells, but to the class of boats we term outrigger barges, an open boat from stem to stern.

boats we term outrigger barges, an open boat from stem to stern.

There is but one race for shells, and that, single sculls. The seventh and eighth races are open only to those here who never won a prize of any kind whatever. It is optened in the prizes to accept the money or a work of art of the same value.

Boats and crews entering must represent a regularly organized amitten rowing club.

Clubs entering must make application previous to May York, and deposit the sum of 100 trancs.

Crews from cubs entered are allowed until June 15 to eater.

POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

GLARY AND LARCENY.—At a late hour on Monday night a rear window leading to the apartments of Ellen Haley and her husband, No. 9 Mulberry street, was forced open without awaking the inmates, after which the burglar passed directly over the bed in which the the burglar passed directly over the bed in which the couple were sleeping, and seizing upon a trunk containing $215 in Treasury notes, $83 in English gold coin, and two watches and chains worth $150, escaped from a side door. In leaving the house the burglar awoke Mra. Haley who arose and, finding that her trunk had been stolen, gave the alarm. Roundaman McDonnell and officer McAuliffs, of the Sixth precinct quickly responded, and after making a search they found the trunk and contents on the fourth floor of house Mo. 7 Mulberry street, and on the floor, near the trunk, lay Patrick McCarty, who protesded to be asleep, although when first seen his eyes were wide open. Patrick was taken into custody, whereupen he said he had been lying there for nearly three hours. Half an hour previous to the robbery, however, the prisonor had been seen loitering about the house in a suspicious manner. McCarty protesded to be entirely ignorant of the burglary, but the circumstances being against him he was taken to the station house. Yesterday Justice Horan committed him to the Tombs for examination. The stolen money and trunk were taken in charge by roundsman McDonnell.

A Bourne Curanus. Joseph Levereny, residing at 252 Tenth avenue, while traveiling up town on the evening of the 22d, fell in with a friend. After leaving the care both individuals made a call upon one Charles Petric brother to the companion of Levereny. Immediately after entering Petric's room, according to Levereny's statement, his friend left him, and Petric, who is a rough looking German, about twenty-four years of age, shortly after set upon him, and thrust him out of doors. About this time Joseph discovered his pocket-book missing, in which there was about $70, and from the fant that he had it while in Petric's house, he believes him guilty of stealing it. The prisoner was shortly afterward arrested in a dance house on Tenth avenue, and while being searched for the missing property a murderous-looking slung shot was found on his person. He was yesterday obarged with the two offences before Justice Ledwith, who committed him for trial.

INTERNATIONAL RACKET MATCH.

Gray the Winner.

The match at rackets, between William Gray, the champion of England, and Fred Foulkes, of this city, was concluded yesterday afternoon, at the Court of the New York Racket Club, 53 West Thirteenth street. The sixth game, which was abruptly terminated on Monday by the storm, was continued At the time of closing the play the game stood five for Foulkes to six for Gray. On recommencing the game Foulkes to six for Gray. On recommencing the game Foulkes secored two points, then two blanks, one point and ten blanks. Gray scored six blanks, two aces, two blanks and six aces; thus winning the game by soven points. The seventh game, or "rubber," was immediately commenced. Betting was now quite even, and the intense interest felt for the result of the contest was plainly discersible on every face, except, indeed, those of the two principals. Gray opened play in a manner which showed that he meant to win, and before his hand was lost had scored seven. Foulkes went in to do his "prettiest;" but Gray made short work of the innings, and threw Foulkes out with a blank. Foulkes returned the compliment to Gray, and he repeated the dose to Foulkes and added two more to his own score before he was "fust." Foulkes was treated to another cipher; but he quickly paid Gray back in the same colt. Gray, however, reterated the "blanking!" process and, going in, scored the winning figures, and retired amidst the most hearty plaudits of the spectators. The last game was exceedingly well played on both sides, and, in justice to Mr Foulkes, it was positively affirmed by Mr. Waters (Gray's backer) that Foulkes was the toughest castomer Gray had over coatended with.

After the close of the match a purse of $200 was made Monday by the storm, was continued. At the time of with.

After the close of the match a purse of $200 was made up among the members of the club, and Messrs. Gray and Foulkes, in compliance with a general request, played for the purse, three games of fitteen points each. The first game was evenly contested until both had scored thirteen, the game was then "set" at five, and was won by Gray by three points. Foulkes won the second game by four points and Gray the third by three points. second game by four points and Gray the third by three points.

The grand match was for a purse of £1,000, and the subsequent match for a purse of £200; and as Gray won both matches, he now stands champion racket player of the world.

LIFE SAVING APPARATUS

The government commission on life saving apparatu met yesterday at ten o'clock A. M., in the usual place Captain Miew presiding. From thence they proceeded on board the revenue cutter Kankakee, for the purpost of experimenting on lifeboats and flag signals. As soon as the boat had passed the Narrows a number of experiments were made. One of the most interesting of these was made on Shears' self-bailing hieboat. An eighteen foot boat of this pattern was launched, with thirteen men on board, prepared with buckets to test her self-bailing quanties. All the water thrown into her by these men made no impression. They then commenced carcening her from side to side, letting the water in rapidly enough to swamp an ordinary craft of her size; but it ran out as fast as it came in, proving that she can relieve herself of water under all circumstances. The water is discharged by scuppers running from the backwater line to the keel, and the principle can be applied to any boat. This boat was provided with compartments for water and provisions.

Among the most interesting fog signals was what is termed the ship fog signal, by Mr. Banks, of the Marine Fog Signal Company. It consisted of a hollow cylinder. Among the most interesting log signals was what is termed the ship fog sipnal, by Mr. Banks, of the Marine Fog Signal Company. It consisted of a hollow cylinder, in the shape of a wheel, with a horn or whistle attached to the ends. The cylinder being partially filled with water, and an oscillating motion given to it, caused the water to compress the air on the whistle and hlowit with great force, making a loud noise like that from a trumpet. It can be rea it wadapted to any size of vessel, and is not very liable to get out of order. If every vessel used it collisions would be less frequent.

J. Warcan's signal light and others were shown, but a description of all is impossible.

When all the experiments were concluded the Kankakee was far beyond shouly Hook. On the return trip to the city the party on board were entertained by Captain Slicer and his officers to a repast. To-day the subject of steam navigation will be the topic investigated by this industrious commission.

The following additional details of the late revolution Hayti are taken from the Jamaica papers:—

Revolutionary Committee, is as follows:—

Considering that General Gelfrard has violated the provisions of the constitution, become a traitor to the country, and absconded from the capital, followed by his emissaries, on the night of the 13th of March, taking with them the public moneys, it is decreed:—

1. That General Gelfrard, his wife, his children and his sons-in-law—A. Dupay, N. Corsel, A. Windsor and B. Coulerrs—are banished forever from the territory of the re-

2. Also for ten years the following:—A. Carrie. Tibertus Zamer, B. Narcisse St. Masarsy, St. Amand and Cadet Jereptie.

2. In case this decree should be violated, any citizen is authorized to treat them as traitors.

4. General Geffrard and all those who have been his Ministers from the dissolution of the House of Representatives in 1885, to the 28d of Fabruary, 1887, are included in the act of expatriation, and their properties are provisionally confected.

5. Such parts of their property as are perishable will be immediately sold.

Chief of the Committee, CHEVALLIER.

The Ravolutionary Committee of St. Marc's had also passed a decree expatriating ex-President Geffrard, and calling upon the people to pursue and capture him, should he land on Haytian territory. The execution of this decree was committed to the particular of the citizens, and it is signed by C. Montas, president of the committee, and eleven other members.

The following, dated March 13, 1867, was also published:—All officers, civil or military, who have been promoted by Geffrard, from the 5th of July, 1868, are deprived of their promotions.

All officers, civil or military, who did not take an active part in this revolution, are dismissed from the service.

The revolutionary army of St. Marc's entered Port-au-Prince on the 20th of March, and were enthusiastically received by the inhabitants. They visited the Cathedral, where a Te Deum was chanted in honor of the revolution.

General Nissage Saget had accepted the provisional Presidency, and General Sainave had been elected Presions.

The Provisional President, with the consent of the Executive Council, had published a decree, discontinuing the consulates at Kingston, Jamaica, and Turk's Island. d. The Financial Department had published a decree that from April I the import and tonnage duties would be received at the Treasury in national currency, at the Treasury rate.

The following are extracts of a letter from a gentleman at Cape Haytien to a friend at Port au Prince, dated April I, four o'clock P. M.:—General Sainava arrived at Cape Haytien to the morning of the 27th of March from Turk's Island, with about twenty followers. He was received with the greatest enthusiasm. The wharves and principal streets were crowded, and salutes were ired in his honer from the shore and from the American vesses-of-war in port. Flags were flying in all the windows. All the Consuls went to the wharf to receive him. His return was comparable to the return of Napoleon from Elba. He is indeed a fine fellow; quite a young man of thirty-three, and no more. He looks much betier than he is represented in his photograph. He is not yet disposed to come over; he wishes to put things in order first. He does not wish to see any of Geffrard's people.

Another letter says:—General Nisage Saget and Victoria Chevallier both received a letter from General Salnave dated Cape Haytlen, 27th March, which letters have been read to the army, expressing his approval of the measures they had taken. It is satisfactory to say that these three chiefs agree together almirabit well.

The letter which Sainave wrote to Nisage Saget and Victoria opproved of all they had done cencerning the travision of the constitution," and the sending home a great part of the army.

It was expected that General Sainave would reach the capital on the 6th.

The United States steamer Mackinaw had left Port-au-Prince for St. Marc, with the Upited Saices Minister on board.

The third Congress of the republic opened its on March 11, by the selection of General Guzman Blanco as President of the Sonate; Dr. Manuel N. Vetancourt and General W. Casado, Vice Presidents; Senores Braulio Barrios and Pedro Ledezma, as Secretaries. In the lower house, Senores José Dolores Landaeta was chosen Speaker; Eloi Montenegro, Clerk; Dr. Riera Azulpa-

The sessions were regularly continued, and overy effor was taken to reduce the expenditure of the government. It was momentarily expected that Congress would take up for discussion the agreement made with the minister resident of the United States on the subject of American claims against Venezuela. Everything indicated speedy and amicable adjustment of this matter.

speedy and amicable adjustment of this matter.

The President of the Senate delivered a speech on the receipt of the annual message from the Executive, and alluded to the project of restoring old Colombia to its former limits, by the annexation of Ecuador and part of the present Venezueia. He said:—The existence of Colombia was impossible; nor can it he re-established nowadays. New Granada, far from being a sister nation in the inevitable destiny of this continent, its our natural and unfailing rival. Her interest exclude ours. She is destined to dispute with us the supremacy of these surrounding seas, as well as the river navigation of this part of the continent; she will compete with us for the trade of foreign markets; she will dispute with us for the balance of power in American politics; in the, she must compete against us for the glory of the future jest as she is doing new to overshadow our history and traditions. The representative of Colombia in Venezueia, Señor Emirgia Paiau, protested against the remarks of General Blanca.

WHO WILL BE THE SUCCESSOR OF MR. GLADSTONE?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HARALD. The resignation of Mr. Gladstone as the leader of the liberals in England, was not unexpected by the people of that country. Last summer's parliamentar decided the fact that Mr. Gladstone was too ho or any conciliation whatever to gain the support of any member, and to this cause, and this cause alone, may be attributed the defeat of the liberals. But who will succeed him? Not Mr. John Bright. Why? Because he is too much a democrat in the fullest sense of the word; too honest, and his honesty of purpose and inde-pendence would be the great barrier in the way of his assuming the leadership of any party constituting a part of a monarchy and aristocratic country assuming the leadership of any party constituting a part of a monarchy and aristocratic country like England. Then, Mr. Bright will not take office, either as the head or as the member of any Cabinet formed for the governing of the country. Therefore, as a leader, he would fall far short of the mark in having no loaves and fishes to throw at the foet of his followers. He would neither promise nor compromise to gain support. Certainly he would have the people on his side, but the aristocracy would be dead against him, office seekers would shun him, and members looking after bribes—part of the secret sorvice money—would give him the cold shoulder. Therefore, there is no chance for good Friend Bright to obtain the leadership of a party or parties in the "Mother Country." Who, therefore, will succeed Mr. Gladstone, is a question, as far as the liberal party, as now constituted, will be broken up, and in all probability Mr. Gladstone will form a combination with Lord Samley, Earl Derby's eldest son, who, though now a prominent member of his father's administration, is known to be a man of very liberal views, high minded, and of a good share of experience. To him the present liberal reform measure of the Tory ministry is ascribed, and his (Earl Stanley's) combination with Mr. Gladstone has long been talked of and which dfor in some of the most influential pablic circles. It is known that Earl Derby will not accept office again after the present term, and if the Gladstone Stanley combination were to become a fact is would form a most powerful party, embracing the members called liberal conservatives and moderate liberals. Where will the tories be? It will be a thing of the followers of Derby and Disraeli, and the tory party will become extinct.

But there will be an advanced party; in fact a Demo-

But there will be an advanced party; in fact a De cratic section, more in accordance with the views of Mr.

John Bright will be returned under the new reform bill if it becomes law, which is most likely, and that party will force themselves into notice under a leader or leaders who has not yet come to light, and who will put the old school of politicians, it is to be hoped, to shame, and de away with bribery and corruption, giving the people their full rights. Yours truly, JOHNNY BULL.

PRIZE FIGHT IN CALIFORNIA

William Fox of New York, and John Blackey of California. The Latter the Winner. The Sacramento (California) Union gives the following account of a prize fight for $250 a side, that took place near Freeport, in Sacramento county, on Thursda March 21, between John Blackey, of that city, and W

March 21, between John Blackey, of that city, and William Fox, alias Johnson, of New York:—

The whole of the money was dely posted, and on Wednesday, March 20, the ceremony of weighing was gone through with at Bob Mellen's, corner of Twolfish and J streets, Sacramento, when both were well within the stipulated weight. Fox was trained by McAlpin alias Soap, at the Union race track, and Blackey has been taking his breathings around the city under the superintendence of George Fayior. Both appeared to be remarkably quiet young mun, and from their appearance would be taken for anything but fighters. On the ring being pitched Fox was the first to walk into it, accompanied by his seconds Foy and Soap. Shortly after Blackey made in ancerance with his accords, Johnny Walker and k him by the h
